

INDIANA UNIVERSITY
INDIANAPOLIS

To Whom It May Concern,

Indiana University-Purdue University Indianapolis (IUPUI) is currently going through a significant institutional change: Indiana University (IU) and Purdue University have signed an agreement officially creating separate and independent Indianapolis campuses for IU and Purdue. This realignment becomes effective July 1, 2024, which is also when the I-17 update will be submitted to change our official name in SEVIS to Indiana University Indianapolis.

Many newly admitted international students for Summer or Fall 2024 will have an admission letter and other materials that reference our new name, Indiana University Indianapolis, but their I-20/DS-2019 will still have our current name, Indiana University-Purdue University Indianapolis.

We would appreciate your assistance facilitating students' timely arrival to the United States for the beginning of fall classes, including necessary visa and travel arrangements.

Sincerely,

Aliza M. Frame
